“ The loss of Artie Pearlroth is particularly sad. His life history and memories were so unique and he had so many important stories to share: escaping the Holocaust, upper echelon military career and business travel bringing him to most every country in the world. Artie was kind and good, with a generous soul, so very intelligent, graced with the sweetest smile that I will always remember.

“ Dear Steven and Rob:

From the bottom of my heart, please accept my condolences in the loss of your father so soon after the passing of his Dearest Marcia. I met both your parents at the Dunkin Doughnuts after an exercise class which I take at the JCC.

They were awesome people. I enjoyed knowing them. Artie had a good sense of humor and had some great stories.....there aren't many people left of his caliber. We had one thing in common.....we both worked and retired from the US Government, he from the Army and I from the Air Force. Our jobs required having a security clearance which meant the FBI had to do a background investigation and go all the way back to the neighborhood which you grew up and talk to some of the elders that knew you from the time you were a young kid. Word got around to some of them and they would gossip among themselves and say, "I wonder if they are into something". Artie and I had a chuckle out of that.

I feel confident that they are together again and resting at peace with the Lord, however, that does not take care of the pain that you boys and their loved ones are feeling right now.....only time can help lessen that. We are never ready to give them up, no matter how old they are. We just have to try and have faith and find comfort in believing that we will see them again in Heaven some day.

Sincerely,

Helen Johnson

“ Dear Robbie and Steven--My deepest sympathy for the passing of your Dad just five weeks after your Mom's sudden demise. Looking back at their wedding picture, perhaps thinking of this loss as a love story may ease your sorrow. They are together now and your Dad is no longer sad. Celebrate their life together and cherish all those fond memories. They will always remain in your hearts. Your parents will be remembered by many and truly missed. Fondly,
Diana Hopkins
