

Stanley Tulgan

November 23, 1927 - September 10, 2023

On September 10, 2023, Stanley S. Tulgan, a gentleman and a scholar, peacefully exited the stage at the age of ninety-five surrounded by his loving and adoring family.

Stanley is survived by his wife of sixty-nine years, Marilyn, his three children, Debbie Bear Rosenbloom (Ben), Lisa Sherman and Marc Tulgan (Wendy). He is also survived by his grandchildren, Jason Bear (Christine), Zachary Bear (Jordan), Jennie Bear, Ben Sherman (Ahmed Kilani), Sydney Fleagle (Brian), and Sam Sherman, and by his great-granddaughter Maya Rae Fleagle. Additionally, Stanley is survived by his brother Norman Tulgan (Flora Lee), his sister-in-law, Carol Tulgan, and his step-grandchildren Jenna (Brandon Comstock) and Adam Rosenbloom, as well as many nieces and nephews. Stanley was predeceased by his brother Allen Tulgan, M.D.

Stanley was born in Brooklyn, New York on November 23, 1927, the son of Bernard and Rae (nee Gross) Tulgan. Stanley served in the U.S. Army, where he saw duty in Germany. He was a proud graduate of City College of New York, where he received his undergraduate and graduate degrees in electrical engineering.

Stanley was one of three co-founders and owners of Vectron Laboratories, Inc. located in Norwalk, Connecticut. Stanley and his two partners, Julius Guttman and Alfred Camhi, considered themselves not only partners but brothers. At Vectron, he served as vice president of engineering until his retirement in 1996.

Stanley was a long-time member of Temple Shalom in Norwalk, Connecticut, where he served on a number of special committees and the board. As an avid golfer, he was also a member at Rolling Hills Country Club and Bocaire Country Club.

Stanley was a philanthropist, generously supporting his temple, the Multiple Sclerosis Society, the Jewish Federation, the Jewish Anti-Defamation League, and Hadassah.

Above all else, Stanley loved spending time with his cherished wife. They traveled extensively with family and friends. Stanley treasured his time with his family, telling stories, sharing holidays, and meals, and illuminating his family with his keen knowledge of history. He was an avid reader, an expert lexophile, and enjoyed expanding his knowledge of foreign languages.

A graveside service will be held at 11:00 AM on September 11th at the South Florida Jewish Cemetery in Lake Worth, Florida. The family requests that in lieu of flowers, donations be sent to Trustbridge Hospice of Palm Beach County, Temple Shalom (Norwalk, CT), the Multiple Sclerosis Society, or a charity of the donor's choice.
